NO PLAGUE ON THE SHIP. (1) I OF ROME AND HER PASSEN. GERS PASS QUARANTINE.

A Long Thermometer Matinee Aboard-Dr. oty Says There's No Reason to Apprehend That the Plague Will Get a Lodgment Here Short Trips Add to Quarantine Problems.

The Anchor Line steamship City of Rome, the first vessel to reach here from Glasgow since the outbreak of the bubonic plague in that port, was ransacked by Health Officer Doty and his staff for over five hours yesterday afternoon in search of anybody who might reasonably be suspected of having a germ of the plague concealed about his person. Incidentally, of course, the Quarantine corps were looking for persons who might be consciously smuggling in germs of other infectious diseases. But it was the bacillus of he bubonic plague that Dr. Doty was particularly looking for and did not find. Ship and passengers were allowed to come up to the

There were 1,339 persons on the Rome all told-491 first cabin passengers; 244 second cabin; 336 steerage and 296 crew. The saloon passengers were inspected first. Each one of the 491 was called up and identified, and after being keenly looked over by a health officer was checked off and passed as not guilty. With second cabin and steerage passengers and with the crew the scientific crossexamination was more rigid. In addition to being called up and identified each one of em had his temperature taken. More than thirty thermometers were put into use and as each thermometer after use had to be dis nfected, washed and wiped dry on a clean cloth, the process was a slow one. As the temperature of each person was taken it was noted down and kept as a matter of record. The result of this rigid examination, which began between 7 and 8 o'clock in the morning, was that at 12:20 in the afternoon the City of Rome not only was pronounced to be above suspicion so far as the bubonic plague was concerned, but got the same clean bill of health from Dr. Doty which her own medical officer, Dr. Smith Shand, had given to her when he reported at Quarantine. At 12:23 she started for her dock, where after the Custom House officers had had some more fun with them. her passengers were allowed to land, save the 338 in the steerage, of course, who were held to be run through the immigration commissioner's sieve.

All on board the steamer took the medical examination in entire good part when it was explained to them that the bubonic plague had broken out in Glasgow after the vessel's departure. The Rome salled on the 25th. The first case of the disease was not reported until the 27th, a week ago vesterday. As a matter of fact, the City of Rome did not come from Glasgow proper, but from Greenock, twenty-one miles below the city, the ship being of such length and draught as to make it impossible to take her up the narrow Clyde with safety. But Greenock is to all intents and purposes a part of the port of Glasgow and has been included in the twenty-four hours' quarantine announced yesterday as having been imposed by Bremen against all vessels arriving at that port from Glasgow to be run through the Immigration Commis-

"Even in Santos and Rio," he said, "where the disease seemed for a time to be getting a grip, it has made little progress and they are ports which leave a good deal to be desired both in point of cleanliness and in the enforcement of sanitary precautions. In Honolulu and San Francisco it was stamped out. We hear no more of it in Oporto, and from the representative of this department in Alexandria I have just had information that there has not been a case there for a week. In India, where the half-starved natives had little or no power of resistance and where there is an abundance of the filth on which the plague thrives, its ravages were appalling. Ninety per cent. of those who were attacked died. In Santos only 25 per cent. died. The bacilli seem in some way to lose their virulences when exported to points far from their original development, although if they found congenial conditions of filth and climate and sanitary neglect they might become as deadly in one place as in another.

"Of one thing you may be certain, and that is that neither the bubonic plague nor any disease of that type will be conveyed in cargoes or in clothing. The story that the disease was carried to Oporto in a cargo of jute is all rubbish, just as is the story that three sailors who are reported as having come down with the disease in London got if from neck-cloths they bought in Bombay and put on for the first time when they went ashore in England. The disease is carried by infected persons and practically in no other way. You may sit with absolute impunity by the side of a well person who has just came from the bedside of a smallpox patient. His clothing will carry no germ to infect you. Yet if you sit by a smallpox patient you may very likely get the disease. To get the bubonic plague youmust be inoculated with it, except in the rare cases when the germ becomes so very virolent that it gains have no fear that the disease will spread llasgow to an alarming extent. For the ten days after the existence of such a case is discovered there is apparently a rapid development as the new cases that were inoculated from those first attacked are heard from. That naturally is the case in Glasgow. But now that they know what they have to deal with there, they will soon stamp it out."

PLAGUE DEATH AT GOVAN.

Bubonic Sickness Gets Into a Glasgow Suburb-Quarantines Abroad. Special Cable Despatches to THE SUN.

GLASGOW, Sept. 3.-No new ases of the plague were reported to-day. A boy named Gilchrist has died from the disease at Govan. He is supposed to have caught it while playing around the docks. Govan is a suburb of Glasgow. All the medical and sanitary officials are engaged in the work of inoculation. Mr Littlejohn, Chief of the Scottish Medical Board, has inspected and highly praised the precautionary measures adopted to prevent the spread

WOOD SAYS CUBA'S LOOKING UP. What He Saw in His Tour of the Island-Protest Against Havana Charter.

Special Cable Despatch to THE SUN.

HAVANA, Sept. 3.—Governor-General Wood, who returned to Havana yesterday after making a tour of the island, says that he is well satisfied with his trip. Compared with the state of affairs that prevailed a year ago, he found there was great improvement. construction is beginning almost everywhere. There is a complete absence of beggars. The people are friendly and confident. The general feeling regarding the coming elections is that the best men should be chosen as delegates to the constitutional convention. Gen. Wood told the people that unless their representatives drew up a good constitution the United States Government would not accept their work. The national party in Matanzas has nominated Senores Incorre and Del Junio. and Gen. Sanchez, a negro with strong racial sympathies, as delegates to the convention for Matanzas province.

The municipality of Havana recently published a strong protest against the charter in which the officials wandered into matters that were quite irrelevant. Among other things the protest said that many secretaries had been discredited owing to the fact that they took upon themselves responsibility for the acts of the intervening Government. The first set of secretaries, the proclamation declared, had almost a free hand, and those who were discredited were themselves to blame, as in the case of Senor Lanuza, who appointed a large number of superfluous professors at the university from among his friends. Regarding the more recent or present secretaries, if any of them had lost caste with the people it was due to lack of energy, as in the case of the late Secretary of Justice.

The municipality confesse i that the proclamation was issued mainly for the purpose of excusing the inaction of the municipal officers and getting in favor with the people. The municipality wants the new charter to take the form of a military order, so that the officials may avoid the responsibility of accepting it.

WARSHIPS AT BAR HARBOR.

British and American Squadrons Are to Meet There To-day.

BAR HARBOR, Me., Sept. 3,-The warships of the American North Atlantic squadron, including the New York, Indiana, Massachusetts, Kentucky, Kearsarge, Texas and Scorpion, are anchored in the upper bay awaiting the arrival of the English squadron under the command of Vice-Admiral Bedford, K. Ardsley, St. Andrews and Many Other Places.

MOUNT PLEASANT HOUSE, N. H., Sept. 3.-Hundreds of golf enthusiasts from all parts of the White Mountains journeyed here by Vain and in brake and drag parties to witness the greatest match in the history of White Mountain golf. J. H. Taylor, open champion of England, with David Findlay of Maplewood, played against Horace Rawlins of Waumbek Golf Club, open champion of America of 1896 and Launcelot Servos of the White Mountain Golf Club. The day was excessively warm and the slight breeze was insufficient to temper the heat, although strong enough to prevent perfect golf. Owing to the recent exhibition here by Harry Vardon, the interest displayed was intense, and every play of Taylor's was compared and every play of Taylor's was compared to the ex-champion's. Taylor, who was suffering from a severe cold, was not in his usual form, consequently he suffered by comparison with Vardon. However, he played steadily and at times very brilliantly. Taylor and Findiay won by 5 up and 4 to play, but the champion falled to equal Vardon's record. Horace Rawlins fairly outdid himself and in the morning round his approaches were marvelious. His driving was also remarkably straight and evoked much applause from the gallery. The first half left Taylor and Findiay 3 up. Findiay took one of the eighteen holes and halved four with Taylor. The morning scores:

In the afternoon round Taylor demonstrated again his great superiority on his iron shots, which were long and straight as a die. His play was almost id nitical with that of the morning, but the greens were dry after the long drought and not in as good condition as they, might have been, consequently his jutting was not up to his standard. Rawlins again got in some phenom-nal puts, while Findlay and Servos did much better work than in this morning's play. The long drive of Servos, Findlay's putting and Rawlin's brilliant drives and iron shots were features of the game. From a srectacular standpoint Taylor's play was a disappointment, but it was remarkably steady throughout and was as perfect golf as the condition of the greens would permit.

TROTTING AND PACING. Georgena Wins the Charter Oak Purse-Arlon

HARTFORD, Sept. 3.-The Grand Circuit neeting at Charter Oak Park opened auspiciously this afternoon, fully 10,000 persons being present. Gov, Louisbury and his staff with Mayor Harbison were guests of honor and were conveyed to the park in automobiles. The Law and Order League and the local authorities did not interfere with the pool selling and everything was serene. The racing was all that could be desired, the finishes being the closest ever seen at the park, many of them heing under the whip. Especially exciting was the 2:08 pace, in which every heat was a race. The first heat was won in grand style by Free Bond, first heat was won in grand style by Free Bond, who fairly flew away from his trailers until nearing the stretch, when McHenry began driving Bonnie Direct. He responded nobly to the call made on him, traveling like the wind, but he was too far back and could get only second place. Harry O. won the second heat, snatching the victory from Free Bond at the wire. Their race down the homestretch awoke the wildest enthusiasm, and they were cheered voelferously as they came in. The other heat went over till to-morrow on account of darkness.

terday off the clubhouse at Sea Gate for yachts se feet and under and sixteen boats started. The wind was quite strong from the southeast The wind was quite strong from the southeast and this made many of the owners of small boats prefer to remain at anchor. The course selected by the Regatta Committee was from the starting line off Sea Gate to and around a buoy off Fort Lafayette, then to and around a buoy off tilmer Park and then to the starting line. The 30-foot class sailed three times around this triangle ten and a half miles altogether and the small boats went twice around, making seven miles. The summary:

NEW PORT'S HORSE SHOW PROMISES TO BE ONE OF THE BEST

EVER HELD THERE. Fashionable Gathering on the Opening Day

-Exhibition of Women's Saddle Horses a Feature-Big Fields in the Various Classes NEWPORT, Sept. 3.—The Newport Horse Show on the grounds of the Newport Casino began on the grounds of the Newport Casino began this afternoon, and there is every indication that it will be one of the best shows ever held at Newport. Many of those who have always taken a prominent part in the event are absent, and the exhibitors are largely dealers, giving the show a professional tone that it never before had. All the cottagers turned out, and half an hour after the show began there was not a seat to be had in either grand stand or boxes. All of the latter had been taken for some weeks, and it was as fashionable a gathering as ever was seen in Madison Souare Garden. The Astors, Gerrys, Van Alens, Milises Oelrichses, Beimonts and Lord Pauncefote were all there and they divided their time equally between the boxes and the teatent, which occupied a space in the rear of the band stand.

There were fourteen classes on the programme this afternoon, but some of them were so large that proteste had to be made in order that the class might be again opened for judging.

The society feature was the women's saddle horses, the women's phaeton and the park teams, although in the latter Robert L. Gerry was the only society man to drive. Of the women to appear on the tan bark there were Miss Gladys Mills, Miss Beatrice Mills, Mrs. J. B. M. Grosvenor, Mrs. T. W. Kotman and several from Boston—notably the two daughters of Mrs. Lawson. In class 28 Mrs. Conoway

In class 28 Mrs. Conoway was placed in an embarrassing position. One of the judges had pinned a bige ribbon on her horse and she was driving off in great glee, when she was stopped and the blue changed for a red. The little woman stood it bravely, but the crowd sympathized with her.

To-morrow there will be both morning and afternoon exhibitions. The Executive Committee of the show is Messers. Prescott Lawrence, O. H. P. Belmont, Center Hitchcock, F. M. Ware, W. R. Travers and H. F. Eldridge. The judges of the several classes are:

Scamp Beats the Raider. The raceabouts Scamp, owned by Johnston de Forest, and the Raider, owned by H. M. Crane, sailed a match race off the Scawanhaka Corinthian Yacht Clubbouse at Oyster Bay yesterday afternoon. There was a fresh southwesterly breeze at the time, and knockabout course No. 2 was selected for the yachts to sall over. They were started at $:05 o'clock, and Raider was in the lead at that time. The Scamp soon passed her, however, and finished first at 4:45.44. The Raider finished at 4:45:16. There was also a race between the club catboats. No. 4 was salled by J. R. Burnet, and finished at 4:55:29. No. 2 was sailed by Dr. Potter, and finished at 4:59:20.
